BENNETT SERVICES HELD WEDNESDAY; VICTIM OF WRECK

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon, August 25, at 3:30 at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church for Bill Bennett, 42, who died Tuesday morning after receiving severe head injuries in an auto-truck collision near Fulton on the Fulham Highway. The Rev. Oakley Woodside officiated. Interment was in Greenlee Cemetery, under the direction of Whitnel Funeral Home.

Mr. Bennett was a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. He was employed by the Illinois Central Railroad as flagman.

The accident occurred when Mr. Bennett, who was driving a 1948 Plymouth owned by Dick McAllister, pulled onto the highway into the path of a truck driven by Marvin Lewis Davis of Beeleron. Mr. Bennett was thrown from the car, which was demolished.

His wife, Mrs. Lucy Day Koonce Bennett, who was in the car also, received a broken left leg and was taken to Campbell's Clinic. A daughter, Ann, 18, is suffering from severe shock and remains a patient at the Jones Hospital.

Besides his wife and Ann, he is survived by another daughter, Willa Kay, 8, who was in the accident, but uninjured; four sons, William H. Merger of the properties was approved by the Federal Power Commission and the Tennessee Railroad and Utility Commission.

Court Suit Alleges Warren Fee Collected, But Gave No Service

A motion was filed in Circuit Court Thursday afternoon seeking a temporary injunction to prohibit the City of Fulton or any of its officers from paying James Warren a fee for services he allegedly did not perform.

Plaintiffs named in the motion are James H. Hagan and his brother William Wayne Hagan who allege that on August 17 they were charged a total of $7.50 in court costs, five dollars of which was for James Warren for prosecution of the case. Mr. Warren was not at the trial and did not perform any services, the plaintiffs allege.

Judge Perce told the News that he has been instructed by the City Attorney to collect Mr. Warren's fees under any circumstances and does so even when the City Attorney is out of the city and not able to be at the police court trials to prosecute the cases.

Section 64.410 (1749) states that "no officer shall demand or receive any fee for services not actually rendered," it was pointed out to the city officials in filing the suit.

In his application to the City Council early this year, Mr. Warren said in part: "I hereby submit my application... and agree to draw the affidavits, warrants and orders in the police court and to attend and prosecute all cases therein and on appeal." Judge Perce drew up the warrant in the Hagan case.

A suit to stop the payment of the alleged illegal fee was filed in Circuit Court Tuesday. The suit specifically states that:

The Hagan brothers, doing business as The Dairy Queen were hauled into court on August 17 for violating a Kentucky statute which charged the men with the offense of operating a coin amusement machine without a license. James Hagan was arrested and appeared before Judge H. H. Perce to answer the charge. Judge Perce ordered James Hagan to pay, for the Dairy Queen, to the State Treasurer a sum of $12.10, which represents a license fee of $10 and $2.10 penalty. Judge Perce also ordered Mr. Hagan to pay $7.50 as court cost to the City of Fulton, which $5.00 out of the $7.50 was collected for the defendant James Warren for his fee for prosecuting as city attorney. The Hagan brothers allege that Mr. Warren was not present at the trial and was not entitled to the fee under Kentucky Law. The check for the $7.50 the suit says has been turned over to Martha Smith, City Clerk, who with Mr. Warren is named as a defendant in the suit. The check to the City of Fulton was noted with the word "grat." Miss Smith told the News that Mr. Warren obliterated this notation on the check. It has not cleared the bank and is shown as outstanding on the Dairy Queen's books.

Miss Smith is named as defendant by virtue of the fact that she is the disbursing officer for the city and it is her responsibility to make payment to Mr. Warren for fees collected for his alleged services.

Paragraph III of the suit states that: "The city attorney, James H. Warren, was not present nor did he assist or advise in the John Philip Mayfield owned an Angus Steer that placed third and brought $29.00 per cwt.

Bushart Hereford Farms gave the winner, a purebred hereford calf for next years project.

There were twenty nine calves in the show and sale. They weighed 26,995 pounds and brought $7,137.56. For an average of $26.44 per cwt. This was one of the most successful beef show and sales that have been held.

prosecution of this criminal action against either of the plaintiffs and in fact had nothing to do whatsoever with prosecuting this action on behalf of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, the City of Fulton or anyone else required by said ordinance of January 7, 1954 and KRS 69.560 and is therefore not entitled to $5.00 or any other compensation."

After the trial on the afternoon

Warren's prosecution of the city police cases "In absentia" and collecting fees for such services is evidenced on the police records of June 9, 1954. On that day Mr. Warren was appearing before a Missouri Grand Jury in connection with a bribery trial there in which he was involved. In Fulton on that day however, Judge H. H. Perce tried a case of drunken driving against A. L. Albertine. Warrant No. 230 of the police court indicates that Albertine was fined $167.50. Thirty dollars of this amount was for James Warren's "prosecution" of the case.

On June 4, A. L. Ford was fined $17.50 in police court in warrant No. 232. The warrant was made out by Judge Perce. Five dollars of this sum was for Mr. Warren, Mr. Warren's picture with the prosecuting attorney of Greene County was in the Springfield papers on the afternoon of June 3.

of August 17 Mayor Bill Browning later was present. The suit charges that the city judge, who acted in good faith on orders from the city attorney to collect the fee and Mayor Browning have refused to refund the money. The suit says that "James Warren is about to illegally receive plaintiff's money from the City of Fulton."

Ironically the absence of the city attorney at the trial prohibited him from earning a right healthy commission, since the law requires that a heavy fine be imposed for violation of the statutes for which the Hagan brothers were arrested. The fine according to Jennings Kearby, attorney for the plaintiffs, cannot be imposed now since the case is closed and the law does not stipulate that a law offender be tried more than once for any offense.

Mr. Warren is quoted as saying that "where a person enters a plea of guilty and no notice is given to the attorney that the defendant desires a trial, he is presumed to have waived a trial and waives prosecution by the attorney."

James Hagan stated to the News that he did not enter a plea of guilty.

Since the new salary arrangement of the City Attorney was put into effect on January 7, 1954, and which Mr. Warren made retroactive to January 1 in order to collect fines for the seven-day period, Judge Perce has frequently made out warrants for law violators.

This practice, it was pointed out, is not consistent with the City Attorney's letter to the Council in January when he said: "It should not be the responsibility of the City Judge to draw affidavits and warrants for any offense. This should be the responsibility of the attorney, for it is hard to assure persons charged with offenses that the judge of a court is impartial, when he has already interviewed the prosecuting witnesses and perhaps has heard the full story from the Police Department's side."

"In my personal opinion the present City Judge has done an excellent job under the circumstances, nevertheless we deserve criticism when we guarantee impartiality of our courts yet place the police judge in the position of having to interview the prosecuting witnesses or see or hear the evidence before trial."

City Attorney James Warren, the suit contends, was not present when James Hagan was arrested and brought before Judge Perce for trial.

WELL WHADDA YOU KNOW? They did go to Officer's Reserve Training Camp. The "four camp widows" of the officers pictured above have had serious doubts with calls coming in from Washington, Wilmington, Delaware and points east. Collusion between the officers, and the public relations department of the US Army was suspected by the widows when this photograph arrived at the News office Wednesday. The "brass" above wanted to prove that they did get a bit of training along the line.

Said the Army PRO in their release:

"Four Fulton officers refresh themselves on disassembly and assembly of carbines at summer encampment of the 439th Military Government Company, West Kentucky reserve unit with headquarters at Paducah. Left to right are Capt. Jack Snow, Capt. Paul Westpheling, Capt. Felix Gossom and Lt. Jack Moore. They will return home Aug. 29 after two weeks at Ft. George G. Meade, Md."

Serious looking crew, aint it?

Toll-Free Phone Service Needed and Wanted Here

The Southern Bell Telephone Company has announced that if sufficient interest is shown by the people of Fulton County for toll-free phone service it will be included in the company's expansion program.

Toll-free service means that there will be no long distance charge for calling within the county stations like Hickman, Cayce, Madrid Bend, etc. Plainly it means that we could pick up our telephone and just ask for the number of any business or residence anywhere in the county and there would be no charge except for our monthly phone bill.

Great interest has been shown by leading citizens and organizations in the county to convince the Public Service Commission that the plan is needed and wanted in Fulton County. And it truly is. With the county seat offices in Hickman there is an untold amount of bother securing long distance to do business with the County Judge, the County Court Clerk, the Circuit Clerk, et al. By the same token there is much business in Hickman that must be transacted with Fulton and other communities by the residents of Hickman. It would save much time and much money and certainly would add to the speed and efficiency with which business is transacted within the county border.

The system of toll-free services within the limits of a county is not new with Southern Bell. Many such systems are in effect today in counties all over the State and business and civic leaders speak highly of the benefits derived.

The only added cost that will be involved in the toll-free system is that the phone service in Hickman be equalized with that of the city of Fulton. The additional charge would be nominal, and the service would be great.

The Public Service Commission is desirous of hearing from you on the matter. Farm leaders are most enthusiastic about the service as it would be a tremendous boon to their every day working activities. And it would be to all persons vitally or remotely interested in doing business or chatting with people within the county.

Sit down today and write a letter to the Public Service Commission in Frankfort telling them that you would like to see the system put into effect. If the Commission is satisfied that the toll-free service is wanted here it will no doubt be in operation in about four months.

It will be a great help to all of us and a great facility in stimulating good relations with our friends and neighbors in the communities around us.

Republicans To Send Brightest Stars To Beat Barkley

With the appointment of Willie Foster, Mayfield clothing manufacturer as campaign manager for Alben Barkley the campaign for the beloved ex-Vice President of the United States is getting into high gear. The appointment of Mr. Foster came as something of a surprise to many state political leaders, since he is a West Kentuckian and probably not as well known over the State as others who might have been chosen.

But Mr. Foster is as close to the inner workings of the Democratic party in Kentucky as any other man in the State. He is a long-time friend of the Vee's and his proximity to the candidate's home will be a great facility in mapping campaign strategy close to home. Mr. Foster no doubt will begin assembling his State organization and we are told that already a campaign chairman for Fulton County is being sought. A conference last week in Hickman was held to discuss the selection of a chairman and chairwoman for this county.

Here in Fulton County we seem to have no worry about the Vee's election to his old Senate post. It is in this section that the Democratic candidate expects to get a solid vote to off-set Republican votes in other parts of the State.

The Republican party has a good candidate in John Sherman Cooper. He is a statesman, has a good record in the Senate, did a fine job in the United Nations and is a good and capable public servant. But in spite of the fact that Vice-President Nixon and his wife Pat will come to Kentucky as will Navy Secretary Charles Thomas, House Speaker Joe Martin, Interior Secretary Douglas McKay and maybe Ike himself, the name Alben Barkley today is synonymous with Kentucky and when his name is on the ballot Kentuckians will vote for him in large numbers.

Except for the fact that Barkley is getting up in years and maybe some folks think a younger man could do better, there isn't much you can say against Barkley in his State. As for the number of birthdays he's had... we'll take our chances on that! And win, too!

Sermonette of the Week -

God's Law Guides Man's Liberty

VERY EARLY IN LIFE man becomes aware that he is living in a world of laws. This certainty becomes part of the very texture of his mind. He discovers that fire burns, hunger weakens, that rain wets; and so on with a myriad of other things.

If he reflects at all upon these laws, he realizes that they are not of his choosing. Their power is in no way affected by his approval or disapproval. He can act as though they did not exist, in which case they damage or even destroy him. The sane man accepts them and does his best to live in accordance with them.

AS THERE ARE LAWS that govern physical things, so there are laws that govern the soul. This moral law is no more made by man, or dependent upon the approval of man, or in any way escapable by man than the material law. He can ignore the moral law, but the result is his own diminution or destruction.

It is foolish, then, to talk about emancipation from the moral law. For example, "we are no longer bound by the two-thousand-year-old law of marriage." The question is not whether the law is old, but whether it is a law.

FREEDOM IS usually defined as the power to do what one likes. But true freedom is doing what we ought because we depend upon God. This is the best reason for liking to do what we ought to do.

Our dependence upon God, though total, absolute, and without a shadow of exception, is not the dependence of machines upon a mad mechanic or of slaves upon a mad king. It is the dependence of free men upon an All-Wise and All-Loving Creator, who knows us more intimately than we know ourselves, who knows how we can best perfect ourselves, and who wills that we do perfect ourselves.

GOD DOES NOT PUT A FENCE around us to prevent us from breaking out into a large field to sample the rich possibilities of life outside. Because God knows what man is made for, His laws are a precise statement of how we can reach our particular goal, how we can avoid destruction on the way.

The man who makes an engine is not limiting my freedom when he tells me not to run it beyond a certain speed. He knows that if I do I will smash the engine. God knows what is best for us. His laws are best thought of as "The Maker's instructions," directions for the right use of ourselves. Freedom is the constant free choice of those things which help us to achieve the end for which we have been created — eternal union with an All-Loving God.

You can judge your friends by what they do rather than by what they say.

Public speakers rarely state facts with such accuracy that they can be relied on.

Expressing faith in your own religion never insults those who disagree with you.

It's rather peculiar, but tolerance is a virtue that your adversary rarely possesses.

One trouble with legislation is that too many lawmakers overdo the "lit" in politician.

The life of the average politician consists of passing the buck and placing the blame.

The writer had the pleasure of attending a family reunion in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smoot west of Fulton last Sunday together with 41 guests. Music, Kodaking and social chats were enjoyed at this home.

Those who attended were: John, Neil Rhodia and Beatrice Smoot all of Akron, Mr. and Mrs. Will Abernathy and Mr. Ray Smoot, Mayfield, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fields and son, Rex, Mrs. Eric Cunningham and son, Randall, Mr. and Mrs. Lunie

In counting the great days of a man's life, do not forget that one on which he starts to school. For tens of thousands of homes the babies are going forth, never to come back.

Somewhere between nine o'clock and noon a transformation has occurred. We send our babies to school, but boys and girls come home to us.

And the little lad's adventure has begun. Elbert Hubbard once said, "Send your son to college and the boys will educate him". Today the little one has measured himself, perhaps for the first time, alongside of others.

He has entered into competition with them, matching wits, made his demands and taken what he could get. His insistent will has come into conflict with others' wills as insistent as his own.

He will be learning how to get along with folk—an accomplishment more important than art, literature or music. He will be learning to submit to authority—the beginning of good citizenship. He will be learning something of the marvelous dimensions of the world in which he lives — the beginning of true humility and real scholarship.

respectable city home. As I have said before in this column, my greatest surprise came when, in a county predominantly rural, I heard some 4-H Club sponsors suggesting that kerosene lamps would be fine things to offer for sale in a rummage sale to raise money to pay that county's share in the camp at Dawson Springs. Though I knew that R. E. A. lines were all across the county, somehow I had failed to picture the coal-oil lamp as such a rapidly passing institution. A hardware store that I used to patronize made a tremendous number of sales of up-to-date kerosene lamps and gasoline lamps; several years ago I noticed how no such gadgets were displayed prominently in the store. Electric appliances had completely superseded this old standby appeal to the rural housekeeper.

Another passing institution in my part of the world is the old-fashioned system of farming, much of which was still alive and going strong in 1935, the date of the first article in this series. Depleted farms were then a dime a dozen; now a very great transformation has occurred. Many a field that had been overcropped or overpastured is now a picture of beauty, even in spite of the several successive years of drought. Cattle graze belly-deep in grass in fields where gulleys and bare rocks used to be all too obvious. The crazy one-crop system that so nearly wrecked farming in many parts of our country seems almost as far away as savage Indiana and primeval forests. Only occasionally, and they are as obvious as the proverbial sore thumb, are there fields now that are being mined as they had been for generations, as if man had to subdue nature as his worst enemy.

A day's work is a day's work, neither more nor less, and the man who does it needs a day's sustenance, a night's repose, and due leisure, whether he be painter or ploughman.

See it. Forget it. Maytag does all the work. See it today.

PATRICIA LATANE

Dear Pat:

Would like for you to answer a question or two for me.

Please tell me what is wrong with my son and daughter-in-law. I haven't heard from them in over two months. I have done ever thing I can to help them. I believe someone is trying to cause trouble. If this is true, will you please give the initials?

Thank you
A worried mother

Dear Worried Mother:

Because of all you have done for your son and daughter-in-law, someone is indeed trying to cause trouble between you. Jealousy and envy is the root of the problem, but the seeds of trouble have been sown well, - it will take time for you to undo all "her" efforts. I don't need to tell you her initials, - it's as plain as the nose on your face.

Dear Pat:

I would like to know if my father-in-law, C. H., is still living? I can't understand, he is so prompt in writing.

Thank you
P. W. G.

Dear P. W. G.:

C. H. is still alive but is in very poor health. You should hear something from him as soon as he is able to write.

chords that announced the approach of the wedding party we saw the life-long friends of the bride and groom march slowly down the aisle.

Anne Latta ended her European cruise in a blaze of happiness to serve Ann as maid of honor. Carmen Pigue Depp shortened her wedding trip to serve as matron of honor.

The bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Wilson, Miss Jane White, Miss Betsy Whitesell and Miss Virginia Hunt, sister of the groom. Cousins of the bride, Miss Dotty Partee and Miss Millie McDade were junior bridesmaids. Carol Conley was an adorable flower girl in her ruffled blue net frock with shirred yoke of white Chantilly lace. She wore a lace covered poke bonnet edged with tiny blue flowers and carried a blue basket covered in white lace filled with flowers.

The groom chose his father, Herbert Hobson Hunt, Jr. as his best man. Ushers were Max McDade, brother of the bride, Curtis Boyd, Bill Hale, Bob Hardy, Larry Hennessey, Jim Schenk and Jack Hufkin.

Then came the beautiful, the story-book like bride on the arm of her father.

She wore a lovely formal wedding gown of imported Chantilly lace and french tulle over white slipper satin. It was fashioned with a pointed, shirred bodice of lace combined with tulle. The scalloped off the shoulder neckline was outlined in rows of iridescent sequins. Covered buttons and satin loops adorned the back of the bodice. The long lace sleeves ended in a point at the hands. The full gathered skirt was poised over hoops. The bouffant tulle overskirt was appliqued with a graduated lace border extending to the knees in front and completely encircling the cathedral train. She wore a doubled fingertip veil of bridal illusion with hand rolled edge cascading from a tiny scalloped lace crown studded with rhinestones. Her only jewelry was a short strand of seed pearls, a gift of the groom.

Her bridal bouquet was fashioned of white fuchsia throatied orchids and stephanotis, showered with double faced picotee satin ribbons, placed on a white Testament, which was given her on the occasion of her high school graduation by her maternal grandparents. In the leaves of the Testament was a lace wedding hankerchief which was made by the paternal great grandmother of the groom. Forming a perfect background for the bride were the lovely frocks worn by her attendants.

The gowns were fashioned of crystal blue net over taffeta; the bodice was fashioned of draped net with an overlay of white Chantilly lace; the single cap sleeve was made of the draped lace. The very bouffant net skirt was covered with net ruffles from the waist to the floor; over this skirt was a flared, graduated skirt of white Chantilly lace, which extended from peplum to floor length. Perfect symmetry was attained by the lace skirt extending to floor length on the right or left side in accordance with the attendants' position at the altar in relationship to the bride. Small clip bandeaux of the lace over taffeta were trimmed with blue eyebrow veils. They carried cascade arrangements of Belmont gardenias placed upon a delicate background of delphinium blue illusion. The bouquets were tied with delphinium blue satin ribbons.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. McDade entertained with an elaborate reception at the Fulton Country Club. A beautiful decorative scheme repeated the blue and white of the wedding, using gladioli, gardenias and delphinium. The receiving line was formed before a background of woodwardia trees. Floral arrangements, mingled with candles and wedding bells, banked the large fireplace. At the register there was a giant white candle with a cluster of gardenias and stephanotis at the base.

The bride's table, placed before wrought iron spiral candelabra, was a veritable picture; a handsome organdy cloth with floor length ruffle placed over satin draped the table; festoons of blue satin ribbons caught with Gardenias stephanotis and illusion encircled the entire table.

The lovely tiered wedding cake, which was topped with a lace wedding bell and a cluster of natural flowers, was encircled with gardenias; other gardenias formed a branched design extending to and encircling tall silver candelabra, which held white tapers. Cut glass punch bowls were placed (continued on page five)

Conley in a pale blue crepe came in proudly on the arm of her fine grandson Max, who seated her next to Mr. and Mrs. Will McDade on the bride's side so that the grandparents could share their pretty Ann saying her vows. Mrs. Conley wore French blue sheer crepe romaine, fashioned along softly draped lines, matching lace applied with iridescent sequins ornamented the bodice and adorned the skirt. She wore a fuchsia orchid corsage . . . Mrs. Lucy Taylor in a black outfit came in to get a view of Ann and Herbie . . . Mrs. Lucy has loved and known Ann since long before she could walk alone . . . and not down an aisle either . . . Billy Wilson added a touch of the military as he came in in his gleaming palm beach with Mary Ann Brady.

Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Wood of Murray were there.

While the guests were being seated Mrs. James Anderson, sang the incomparable "All For You" and "The Sweetest Story Ever Told." After the exchange of the vows and during the benediction Miss Beverly Hill sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Soon the traditional wedding marches were begun, which heralded the wedding party, but first came Dorothy Hunt, Herbie's mother and then Ruby, Ann's mother. Dorothy wore a terrace length frock of champagne lace over satin. The bodice featured a bateau neckline finished with a narrow yoke of shirred tulle. The sleeves were long. She wore a bronze tulle evening veil sprinkled with brilliants and her corsage was also a fuchsia Hybrid orchid.

Ruby wore a handsome formal dress of French blue Chantilly lace and chiffon. The lace bodice was styled with brief sleeves and a deep square neckline which was outlined with a deep band of chiffon pleats; rhinestone clips adorned the corners of the neckline. The lace extended into the soft folds of the chiffon skirt in a scalloped design. Her tiny shell evening hat was a pleated blue chiffon encrusted with rhinestones and had a misty blue veil. She wore long white gloves and her corsage was a large fuchsia Hybrid orchid.

Then sentiment caught hold of us in full sway as it did every guest. As the organ reached the

Miss Callison and Mr. Gerald Harrison To Wed At South Fulton Church in September

MISS CALLISON

Of widespread interest in this community is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Callison of the Middle Road of the engagement and approaching marriage of their only daughter, Martha Ann, to Gerald Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Coy Harrison of Union City, Tenn.

The bride-elect attended Fulton High School, where she was an honor student and a member of various organizations. She is now employed by Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. in Fulton.

Mr. Harrison attended Dresden High School and served with the United States Air Force. He is now employed by the Fulton Pure Milk Co.

A September wedding will be solemnized at the South Fulton Baptist Church.

Diary

at either end of the table. Organ music was heard throughout the reception.

Assisting in receiving and serving the reception, guests were Miss Mary Swann Bushart, Mrs. Homer Wilson, Mrs. Gilson Latta, Mrs. Harry Murphy, Mrs. Bertie Pigue, Mrs. Bob White, Miss Mary Davis Weaks, Miss Fredrica Gibson, Miss Rose Gayle Waterfield, Miss Virene Beard, Miss Eleanor Virginia Canley, Miss Patsy Barron, Miss Susan Bushart and Miss Anne Fall. They each wore gardenia and stephanotis corsages.

Late in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Hunt left for an extended wedding trip. For traveling the bride wore an early fall costume suit of deep navy silk and wool alpaca. The sleeveless sheath dress was intricately designed along empire lines. The short fitted jacket and elbow length sleeves and a brief rolled collar under which she wore an ascot of white ottoman silk dotted in navy. Her tiny original pillbox hat matched her dress and had a small band of the white dotted silk at the edge; there was a navy nose veil. Her accessories were navy and she wore a corsage of white orchids.

It may be anti-climatic to write anything about the parties in Ann's honor after writing the wedding, but there was some activity before the wedding which we have not reported. For instance Friday night Mary-Nelle and Doc Wright, Montez and Horton Baird, Ann and Lawrence Holland and Ward and Sara Bushart and Danny and Joan Baird entertained at the Bushart home for members of the bridal party and out-of-town guests at a rehearsal party. There were more than a half hundred people there and they were served a sumptuous ham dinner.

Saturday morning Ann wanted to have a last "fling" in the single state with her close friends so she had Hugh Fly Cook up a country ham dinner and 16 of them went out there to do a bit of planning just prior to the big event. Herbie did the same thing in Mayfield at Covington's for the men in his wedding.

The diary ends this writing spree for the lovely brides and their parties with a note on her "must" list . . . it says . . . please buy two new dictionaries, a new thesaurus and by all means buy a new typewriter ribbon. The linotype operator says amen.

Hickman Farmers Try Sudan Grass

Seeing the need for cheaper feed, Hickman county farmers sowed a large acreage of Sudan grass this season, reports UK County Agent Warren Thompson.

Beef producers are turning to the cow-and-calf plan, he noted, and need feed to make calves weigh 600 to 700 pounds by October. Cows and calves on Sudan grass are doing well, he added; in fact, they look exceptionally well for this time of year.

Also 3,000 acres of Sudan grass were seeded by dairy farmers in Hickman county, who say they must have cheaper feed in order to stay in business.
